Earthquakes, Hurricanes, Comets... and the USA Saturn Return

Right now I am lovin' my timing. Late July I was parked on the couch in Huntington Long Island as the US debt ceiling debacle was unfolding. In my August blog I made mention of the fact that the dear old US of A would experience her Saturn Return birthday in late August...have a read if you missed it. A fascinating history of major constitutional crises accompanies this cycle every 30 years or so, but this time with Mars in Cancer in on the act it now appears that a hurricane is in order to express the unexpressed rage of the general population...

Well anyway back to late July, the Tea party won the day, a deal was struck for no new taxes on Lear jets, the US lost its AAA Credit rating, and everybody went back to hoping it will all just somehow go away. My what short memories we have these days with so many other events to demand our attention... Libya almost liberated...Gadhafi on the run...rioting in London....and we may or may not be on the verge of the double dip recession. Whoops did I miss something? Last time I looked we hadn't come out of the first one...even with all that money printing. Here's an idea. How about we all just have our own little printing presses at home. That would solve everything!

Now it's late August. Happy Birthday America. Ye gad talk about bells and whistles. 4 weeks later I am parked on my own couch back on the Gold Coast in Oz on a drizzly yummy day tuned in to CNN, as the largest mandatory evacuation in history of East Coast, NY coastal areas and Manhattan is unfolding. I wonder what a couple of Billion dollars damage may do to the NY Stock Exchange on Monday morning. Oh wait a minute it will probably be closed, as the NYSE building is right down there in the flood zone...it may be underwater!

Indeed the new ground zero Tower 1 at 73 stories (of 110) is in the direct path of Irene. I was hanging out there just a few weeks ago chatting to some of the construction guys. Huge project... beautiful structures. Now I'm wondering again...whether they'll blow their tops. This formidable lady "Irene" is following the same track as her famous sisters Belle, Edna and Gloria...who each brought major damage over the decades. Let Fortuna be with all those who are about to go through a very testing experience.

Then there's the 'cracks' in the Washington monuments from the first major Earthquake in a hundred and whatever years...let's see that was about a week ago. I was wandering through those very monuments about 2 weeks ago...and it was fabulous. Loved Washington...indeed it is truly monumental! My Freemasonic soul was in heaven as I touched the centre stone of the Capitol Building down in the crypt under the Rotunda. Lucky me.

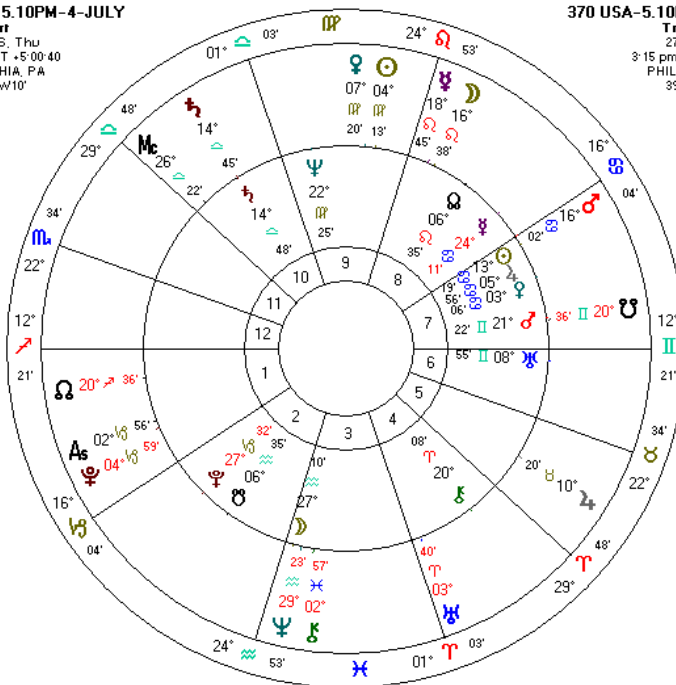

Forgive me if I indulge in a metaphorical moment or two. Earthquake cracks in the monuments. Tower 1 in the direct path of Irene. What does it all mean? Yes I know sometimes a banana is just a banana...it's all just a co-incidence...gee these things just happen...bad luck and all that. Or does our outer world send us signals about the nature of our reality? Is our phenomenal universe alive with information as to the deeper causal energetic systems that create our world?

Our world is very broken...we have huge cracks in our financial/economic systems; in our corporate governance models; in our moral codes; in our value systems; in our honesty and integrity. A sorry state of affairs America. Is this the result of all that hype about democratic principles and global corporate leadership? Is this the fruit of the Pluto cycle begun way back in 1823...the birth of the global industrial culture? Pluto has now reached his zenith in this cycle... unleashing the power of the outcomes built on the unconscious value systems of an unsustainable misuse of nature's resources. Humans are greedy creatures when they have nothing to do but feed there own egos.

Oh that's right Pluto is also hanging out with his mate Uranus these days, angling up for the big connections yet to unfold over the next 4 years.

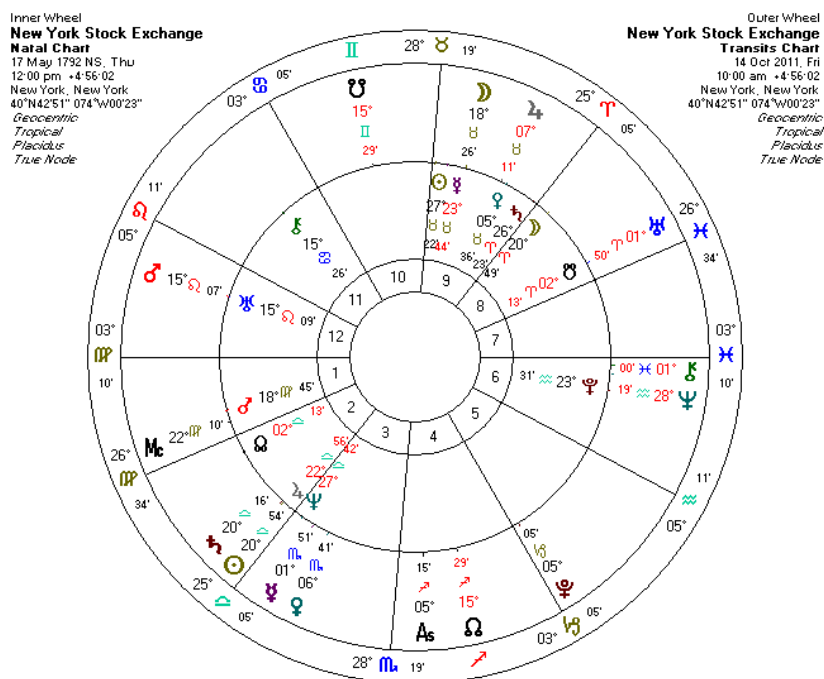

Pluto in Cap is opposite both Venus and Jupiter in Cancer this year in the US chart. Uranus in Aries is square Venus. It will not be until 2012 that Uranus squares Jupiter. So we ain't seen nothing yet as they say.

And there is Saturn up there in the outer wheel...that's the position today...14 degrees and 45 minutes of Libra. And there he is on the inner wheel in his natal position at 14 degrees and 48 minutes. Saturn makes his EXACT return by degree and minute on Sunday 28th ...the day "Irene" arrives in the New York area. Astrology is nothing if not accurate in a moment like this. Classic stuff!

By the way we had our own massive 'weather event' here in Oz back in January as the whole South East of my home state Queensland was inundated with the biggest rain in 120 years. Brisbane went under water for the first time since 1974...Victoria and New South Wales also went under...broke the 10 year drought...caused massive damage. Yep everybody is getting their turn, and all these natural devastating events also contribute to the financial stress of bankrupt countries struggling to stay afloat...excuse the pun.

Here's another chart of great interest right now. The 1792 New York Stock Exchange chart, with transits for October 14th. Note Saturn and the Sun in exact conjunction at 20 Libra both opposing Moon in Aries in the 8th house of institutional money. Mars by transit is exact to Uranus in Leo... always an explosive mixture. 2 days later the Sun joins Jupiter, and Saturn joins Jupiter early November.

But the action will actually begin in early September as Mars in Cancer triggers all of the above in this chart. What a fascinating time to be an Astrologer...that's all I can say. The obvious word of caution on this one is to get ready for the possibility of a big drop mid October, a month that is historically significant for the NYSE.

For those who are tracking the Carl Calleman Mayan Calendar 9th Underworld dates <http://www.calleman.com> we entered the 1st day on March 11th coinciding with the Japanese Quake. There are 7 days and 6 nights of 20 days each in this portion of the Mayan calendar system. On August 18th we entered the 5th night until September 6th when we enter the 5th day. Then 6th night on Sept 26th, followed by 6th day on October 8th ...and there you have it. Sounds like Shakespeare.

Remember this calendar is now travelling at peak speed to take us to the end of the final day on October 28th 2011. I have decided that it is interesting to note the events unfolding within these 20 day periods ...just for fun! Who knows maybe we will all experience the same peak experience on October 28th and wake up enlightened the next day. I for one am banking on it...call me a hopeless optimist.

Just a mention of our latest little disaster scenario, on offer from Comet Elenin heading in toward its' closest pass to our little blue planet. There are claims that it is being pursued by a 'brown dwarf star'...claims that it is actually planet Niburu (3,600 year cycle)...claims that the whole thing is a scam to allow our ruling team to unleash weather events via HARP...yep claims for all sorts of stuff. Keep an open mind and heart...if you want to check it out then here's links <http://awakeningasone.com> and <http://yowusa.com/radio/elenin/elenin.shtml> Now I don't know much about brown dwarf stars but me thinks that if there is one loitering around our solar system then we would already be experiencing massive events all over the system...wouldn't we?

The thing is that it all fits in with final phases of this 9th Underworld of the Mayan Calendar... etc. And with the hype of 2012 'end of times' scenario please be careful to not allow your psyches and emotional bodies to bye into negative influences. Remember the real point of these shifting times is that we are all free to evolve into a new place in our conscious potential. Think positive...not negative. Get excited about who you are and what you have to offer our world and each other. This is what comets really do...they bring in fresh sparks of consciousness...and there is one on the way!!

One thing is for sure. Astrological cycles tell me that all things pass and are replaced with...well new things. And somehow from the wreckage of these 2010 years will arise the new phoenix...hopefully purified and enlightened with fresh vision and purpose. I'll drink to that.

So on to our September Horoscopes...remember to read your Sun and Moon and Ascendant signs...and your Mercury, Venus and Mars as well for that matter.

Aries Make the best of some lighter times this month, especially from the 19th when Mars enters Leo and you get to kick up your heels, have some fun and make like a creative being full of passion and joy. Then comes the Full Moon on the 27th when the big old heavies Uranus and Pluto kick in once more and you're challenged to continue your re-invention of yourself in 2011. If you can hold your nerve powerful new developments arise out of old territory currently passing away.

Taurus Happy days. Jupiter in your sign (all year) connects with El Sol in Virgo on the 3rd and textbooks tell us this means big dollar action is yours for the taking...or receiving. Just make sure it's coming in and not going out and that you have taken care of 'exposed positions' ...on all levels. Meanwhile your ruling Venus...also in Virgo says dot those l's and cross those t's and make the most of fun times with kids and all that stuff. Mars arrives in your home sector on the 19th bringing enterprise and fresh beginnings.

Gemini Planets in Virgo require you to do some sorting and sifting of the many ideas and information your poor busy mind has been receiving of late. What's real versus what's misinformation; how are you managing your mind or is it managing you; and quite what do you do with all of the above. Mars in your communication sector from the 19th says it's time to say it like it is, and from late month financial matters come to a head.

Cancer If you've been a clever crab of late i.e. bunkering down and clearing up old stuff then go for it until the 19th as Mars continues to enliven your world. Conversely if you're still hanging onto old stuff then late month said 'stuff' will be all over the place, but that's OK as then you can deal with it. Fine growth in family affairs is there for the taking with all accompanying joys if you make the best of excellent community connections.

Leo Particularly daunting for lion hearts when fires are dimmed and tedium calls I know but hang in there and keep crunching until the 19th when Mars finally makes his entrance into your world. Then off you go out and about once more to light the fires of a few folks' consciousness. The Libran New Moon on the 27th totally empowers your networking/communication zone so get ready to rock and roll.

Virgo With the Sun lighting up co-operative Venus and expansive Jupiter as your new Birthday year begins be aware that you are being hugely supported by "lucky stars", so it is inherent on you that you make the best of them. Fresh ideas and information are essential and seeds planted now will bear fruit next March...so be careful what you plant! Relationships are a feature courtesy of the Full Moon in your sign. It's time to release constraints.

Libra Take time out from the madding crowd as much as possible until the 23rd when at Vernal Equinox time the Sun comes calling to your world again. In the 'dark' time each year we are meant to nurture and gestate our possible futures, so stay calm and inspired and let your psyche do the work. From late month it's back to the fray as you continue to make the major adjustments that accompany this year and next.

Scorpio Splendid social interactions for the benefit of all concerned keep you busy until the 23rd, at which time you head back behind the scenes for some R & R. So community and group/team goodies bring expansive new features into your life to advance your plans into the future. Mars in Leo fires up career action from the 19th opening a new 2 year cycle. Asserting yourself 'cleanly' into new directions is what it's all about.

Sagittarius Work work work is your mantra this month...well at least until the 19th ...and then its travel, teach and spread your word for the remainder of September. Virgo planets are not your fav thing we know, but every so often we have to do the practical bits to bring our longer term projects come to fruition. Remember luck is 95% hard work and 5% timing. Major work/career developments are currently on offer.

Capricorn You could be a tad worn right now after some challenging career action in recent weeks so good news is that's all done for a while and now it's kick up your heels time...at least until later month. Fresh horizons call both physically and intellectually so great time to travel and/or enjoy courses or seminars to freshen up ideas and skills. Late month career stuff triggers again but this time growth is a smoother affair.

Aquarius Your focus is being driven by some pretty practical matters of late and continues to be for most of this month, so keep powering with work developments and make sure to enjoy your own company! Deep transformative forces are at work building your 'new safe reality so releasing the past on every level is essential now. After the 19th it's PR and Marketing time with energetic new relating situations heading your way.

Pisces Make the most of 'happy people stars' this month with all types of partnerships ripe for positive expansive growth. So be very aware who you are attracting toward you and whether they bring good vibes, ideas and insight to your world. Accept invitations...step out of normal routines...create space for everything you believe you deserve. By later month it's time to do some work and attend to dollar matters.

"The Head in the Park" – Madison Square Park

A giant sculpture of a girl's head by Spanish artist Jaume Plensa has landed in a New York City park. The 44-foot-tall "Echo" in white fibreglass resin was inspired by the Greek mythological nymph Echo.

One of my many stunning moments in Manhattan!

Live Long and Prosper Everyone!!
